Warehousing and distribution services from Texas to speed your product to market

Warehousing and distribution is about getting the right product into your customers' hands as fast as possible, at the least possible cost. Want to do it well? Then it's also about investment – in people, systems and infrastructure – for a service that is not your core business. That's why more companies are relying on outside logistics experts who make those investments on your behalf.

JDF Distribution provides warehousing services for local, regional and national distribution from Dallas, one of nation's fastest growing logistics hubs. In addition, our Houston DC supports local distribution in America's fourth largest metro market. In total, we manage close to 500,000 square feet of warehouse space.

Our approach starts with hiring and keeping the best people: expert operators who make it their business to know yours. Then we give them the tools to succeed, with modern warehouse facilities and advanced systems for inventory management. Integrated with JDF's warehousing service is a transportation management capability: it includes freight brokerage for regional and national distribution and local deliveries using our fleet of late-model trucks. Leveraging this know-how and infrastructure, we've helped dozens of retailers and manufacturers speed products to market while reducing capital assets and total logistics costs.

► Central location and lower costs make Dallas Metro an efficient regional and national distribution point.

JDF's primary DC is in Coppell, Texas, four miles from the DFW Airport outside Dallas. From there, 93% of the U.S. population can be reached via truck in 48 hours. For critical shipments, DFW Airport lets you reach 95% of the U.S. population within 4 hours. Dallas Metro has the lowest distribution cost to the top 50 U.S. consumer markets of any major U.S. logistics center. Warehouse net rental rates are among the lowest in the nation. JDF's facility in Dallas enjoys Triple Freeport Zone status, which avoids inventory tax on goods that come into the market and are shipped outside of Texas within 175 days. All three taxing jurisdictions – school, city and county – honor this exemption.

► Value-added services help cut inventory and labor costs by postponing final product configuration.

JDF offers a range of value-added warehouse services, such as packing, labeling, kitting and light assembly; they allow you to customize your product, based on customer need. This can reduce your labor costs, since it's often cheaper to do this labor-intensive work downstream. It can also reduce your inventory carrying costs by limiting the number of finished SKUs in storage and custom-configuring final SKUs on the warehouse floor, just prior to shipment.

JDF's warehouse management system is RF-enabled and helps manage your inventory efficiently, accurately, and in real time.

Public warehousing delivers flexibility through a variable cost model and quick access to new markets. If your business is cyclical, JDF storage space expands and contracts as needed. We charge only for the space and labor you require, based on monthly volumes. If you are considering an additional distribution point to serve the booming Texas and Southwest region, JDF enables you to achieve this immediately – with no capital investment.

► Other key features of JDF's warehousing solution include:

- Industrial engineering expertise that reduces storage costs by applying good design principles and best-practice storage techniques.
- Support for imported goods. Dallas and Houston DCs serve as distribution points for goods coming through the Port of Houston and goods shipping to/from Mexico.
- RF-enabled warehouse management system that increases efficiency and accuracy. This system is highly adaptable, easily implemented and can support inbound, outbound and reverse flows of goods.

JDF offers a range of value-added services such as packing, labeling, kitting and light assembly.

It's easy to get lost in the shuffle at a large 3PL provider, especially if you are a small to mid-sized company. At JDF, we make a living serving smaller companies that want and need responsive logistics partners. After all, we are a small, family-owned business with owners who answer your calls, get involved, and have a stake in your total satisfaction.

We'd like to be your warehousing partner in Texas. Call or email us today to discuss how we can help you achieve your goals.
